BELLINGHAM TECHNICAL COLLEGE FOUNDATION ADDS NEW BOARD MEMBER MAX LEGG TO ITS RANKS

Bellingham Washington, April 13, 2011 - Bellingham Technical College (BTC) Foundation is pleased to announce that Max Legg has joined the Board effective March, 2011.

Legg is a Certified Public Accountant and senior international tax and business consulting partner with the Bellingham office of Moss Adams LLP. His career has primarily focused on cross-border and international business and taxation matters. For more than 19 years, Max has conducted seminars on cross-border transactions, assisted clients in developing strategic business plans and helped others establish new U.S. or foreign business entities. After 30 years with Moss Adams LLP, he plans to venture into partial retirement beginning in June, 2011.

“We are delighted to have Max as a new board member,” said BTC Foundation President John Macpherson “His extensive professional experience coupled with his interest in Workforce and Vocational Education will be of great value to the BTC Foundation.”

Max and his wife Loren reside in Whatcom County. Max played an integral role in successfully coordinating and raising money for a $3.2 million capital construction project to build a new sanctuary and complete other remodel projects at First Congregational Church on Cornwall Avenue. He and his wife also started and continue to play in a bluegrass band, aptly named “Two Legg’s and Other Parts.”
