ACCUPLACER Writing Sample Questions

The Next-Generation Writing test is a broad-spectrum computer adaptive assessment of test-takers’ developed ability to revise and edit a range of prose texts for effective expression of ideas and for conformity to the conventions of Standard Written English sentence structure, usage, and punctuation. Passages on the test cover a range of content areas (including literary nonfiction, careers/history/social studies, humanities, and science), writing modes (informative/explanatory, argument, and narrative), and complexities (relatively easy to very challenging). All passages are commissioned—that is, written specifically for the test—so that “errors” (a collective term for a wide range of rhetorical and conventions-related problems) can more effectively be introduced into them. Questions are multiple choice in format and appear as parts of sets built around a common, extended passage; no discrete (stand-alone) questions are included. In answering the questions, test-takers must determine the best revision or editing decision in a particular case (or that no change should be made to the passage as originally presented). Two broad knowledge and skill categories are assessed:

- Expression of Ideas (development, organization, effective language use)
- Standard English Conventions (sentence structure, usage, and punctuation)
Sample Questions

Read the following early draft of an essay and then choose the best answer to the question or the best completion of the statement.

   The writer is considering adding the following text at the end of the sentence.

   by building churches, funding scholarships, and establishing the Korean Association of Southern California

   Should the writer make this addition there?

   A. Yes, because it elaborates on the claim made at the beginning of the sentence.
   B. Yes, because it establishes the historical period in which Kim Brothers operated.
   C. No, because it introduces details that are irrelevant to the paragraph’s focus on nectarines.
   D. No, because it fails to explain whether the institutions that the Kims established still exist today.
7. Which choice most effectively combines sentences 5 and 6 (reproduced below) at the underlined portion?

A spider of this species was discovered in the Erg Chebbi. It is a sandy desert in southeastern Morocco.

A. Chebbi
B. Chebbi—this being
C. Chebbi, and the Erg Chebbi is
D. Chebbi, the Erg Chebbi being

Rationales

1. Choice D is the best answer. The singular "was" agrees with the singular subject "much." Choices A, B, and C are incorrect because the plural "were," "have been," and "are" do not agree with the singular subject "much."

2. Choice D is the best answer. Deleting the underlined portion results in a clear, economical sentence. Choices A, B, and C are incorrect because "coming after growing season," "when the crops were ready to pick," and "after the produce had ripened" are unnecessarily wordy and somewhat redundant additions to the sentence given that "harvest season" already suggests what each of these choices introduces.

3. Choice A is the best answer. Sentence 7 is most logical where it is now in the passage, as it helps define "nectarine" in sentence 6 and sets up the description of the nectarine's composition in sentence 8. Choice B is incorrect because placing sentence 7 after sentence 3 would both interrupt the narrative of the founding and early success of Kim Brothers and disrupt the flow between sentences 6 and 8. Choice C is incorrect because placing sentence 7 after sentence 10 would both disrupt the flow between sentences 6 and 8 and introduce basic information about the nectarine later in the passage than is required by the writer's development of the topic. Choice D is incorrect because placing sentence 7 after sentence 11 would both disrupt the flow between sentences 6 and 8 and interrupt the narrative of the later history of Kim Brothers.

4. Choice C is the best answer. A dash is necessary between "millennia" and "the" to complete the separation of the parenthetical information "the fruit had existed in China for two millennia" from the rest of the sentence. Since a dash is used after "nectarine," a dash must be used after "millennia" as well. Choices A and D are incorrect because neither a comma nor a parenthesis after "millennia" matches the dash placed after "nectarine" to set off the parenthetical information "the fruit had existed in China for two millennia." Choice B is incorrect because placing a period after "millennia" results in a rhetorically poor sentence fragment.

5. Choice A is the best answer. The proposed addition expands in a relevant way on the notion of the Kims "giving back to their community." Choice B is incorrect because while the proposed addition should be made, the reason outlined in choice B is incorrect, as the addition does not specify the historical time period in which Kim Brothers operated. Choice C is incorrect because the proposed addition should be made and because the main focus of the passage at that point is not nectarines. Choice D is incorrect because the proposed addition should be made and because it would not be necessary at that point in the narrative to explain whether the institutions the Kims established exist today.

6. Choice C is the best answer. A semicolon after "legs" results in two clear and complete independent clauses and a complete, logical sentence. Choice A is incorrect because a comma after "legs" results in a comma splice. Choice B is incorrect because a semicolon after "gymnasts" illogically suggests that scurrying across the sand on many legs is something that gymnasts would do. Choice D is incorrect because a comma after "gymnasts" results in a comma splice and illogically suggests that scurrying across the sand on many legs is something that gymnasts would do.

7. Choice A is the best answer. A comma after "Chebbi" makes clear that what follows in the sentence ("a sandy desert in southeastern Morocco") describes Erg Chebbi. Choice B is incorrect because a dash followed by "this being" is an awkward and unnecessarily dramatic way to combine sentences 5 and 6. Choices C and D are incorrect because each introduces repetition of "Erg Chebbi" into the combined sentence.
8. Choice A is the best answer. “Ultimately” reasonably suggests that some time passed between the researcher turning over the spider to an arachnid specialist for identification (sentence 9) and the actual identification of the spider as a member of a previously unknown species (sentence 10). Choice B is incorrect because “for example” wrongly suggests that what follows in sentence 10 is an example of what is described in sentence 9. Choice C is incorrect because “nevertheless” wrongly suggests that what follows in sentence 10 happened in spite of what is described in sentence 9. Choice D is incorrect because “at the same time” wrongly suggests that what follows in sentence 10 either occurred simultaneously as what is described in sentence 9 or that it happened in spite of what is described in sentence 9.

9. Choice C is the best answer. The plural “they” agrees with the plural noun “C. rechenbergi,” and “somersault” appropriately maintains the present tense used throughout the paragraph. (“C. rechenbergi” is consistently plural in number here, as signaled most closely by “rear” earlier in sentence 13.) Choice A is incorrect because “it” does not agree with the plural noun “C. rechenbergi.” Choice B is incorrect because “it” does not agree with the plural noun “C. rechenbergi” and because “will somersault” inappropriately shifts the sentence into future tense. Choice D is incorrect because “were somersaulting” inappropriately shifts the sentence into past progressive tense.

10. Choice D is the best answer. The main focus of the last paragraph is on C. rechenbergi’s form of movement, making sentence 17’s reference to the spiders’ reproductive organs irrelevant at that point in the passage. Choices A, B, and C are incorrect because sentences 14, 15, and 16 contribute relevant information consistent with the main focus of the last paragraph on C. rechenbergi’s form of movement.

11. Choice B is the best answer. Using “and being” creates effective parallelism and clarifies what the writer means by “Clifton’s enduring themes”: “family,” “injustice,” and “being African American and female.” Choices A, C, and D are incorrect because using “being” or “and the subjects of” or deleting the underlined portion entirely results in faulty parallelism.

12. Choice A is the best answer. Sentence 3 establishes that the focus of the second paragraph is on “Clifton’s enduring themes.” Sentence 4, which provides basic biographical information about Clifton, is not relevant at this point in the passage and should therefore be deleted. Choices B, C, and D are incorrect because sentences 5, 6, and 7 are all part of the same example illustrating an “enduring theme” of Clifton’s work and are therefore relevant to the focus of the second paragraph.

13. Choice A is the best answer. No punctuation is necessary after “called.” Choices B, C, and D are incorrect because punctuation is not necessary after “called.”

14. Choice D is the best answer. The main focus of the last paragraph is on Clifton as both a talented writer and teacher. Choices A and C are incorrect because each focuses on Clifton’s poetry but not on her teaching, which is also central to the last paragraph. Choice B is incorrect because it focuses on Clifton’s teaching but not on her poetry, which is also central to the last paragraph.

15. Choice B is the best answer. “Spare” is closest to conveying the same meaning as “economy and minimalism,” used in sentence 11. Choices A, C, and D are incorrect because “ambitious,” “nuanced,” and “vivid” do not convey the same meaning as “economy and minimalism,” used in sentence 11.
